

Ancient Legacy™

Aromatherapy is known to enhance the individual's physical, biochemical, mental, and psychological status concurrently. Essential oils are not simple substances, they are "mosaics" of hundreds or sometimes thousands of phytochemicals. Each individual essential oil has a specific biochemical "fingerprint" that determines its characteristic fragrance, color, volatility, and biological and physiological properties.

All About Essential Oils

Ancient Legacy™

"We feel incredibly fortunate to have such high quality suppliers with such integrity and dedication, and we have much to be excited about. There are many great things in store for us all in this aromatic adventure we are taking together." –Alexandria Brighton, Formulator & Educator

"True Aromatherapy" is the fragrant life-essence of a plant that is gently removed through the process of steam distillation or expression that is cared for and handled in a way that protects the integrity of the essence, allowing its effective use in restoring balance to the physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual nature of the individual end consumer...YOU!

Ancient Legacy™ creates exceptional products following a very simple principle: It must provide a quality experience. Our quality is apparent from the moment you open the deep violet-blue bottle. Every product is a result of a painstaking search for the highest quality essential oils, continuing research and education, and years of personal experience. Our "true aromatherapy" products contain a wide variety of high-quality exotic and natural essential oils distilled from flowers, herbs, trees, and spices, such as organic Rose Damascena from Turkey, East Indian Sandalwood, French Highland Lavender Vera, and Cinnamon from Madagascar.

We search out only the purest concentrations of the essential oils from the most respected and ethical distillers. Many of our essential oils come directly from families in the East, many of which have been distilling for over 100 years.
